

Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation (TMS)

Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation (TMS) for Adults

The evidence-based NeuroStar TMS therapy system may be a treatment option for adults diagnosed with major depressive disorder.

- TMS is clinically proven and FDA cleared to treat major depression in adults who have failed to achieve satisfactory improvement from antidepressants.
- Over 60 percent of BayCare patients experience significant relief from depression.
- Typical treatment consists of daily 20–30 minute outpatient therapy sessions for six weeks.
- Patients remain awake and alert and may return to work and normal activities immediately following a session.
- Treatment is covered by most health insurance plans, including Medicare.
